Camelia vs Yellow Whales by Yellow Whales and Camelias ~ only difference is sex of Whales.. A Guia, is what we call them in French. They are very active creatures and like to play games. They are very social and always greet visitors. They are strong swimmers and are usually found in groups of 2 or 5. They get their name from the fact that the males have a very loud and clear "How's the water." greeting song. It's a shout and a whistle as they swim along, and if they are with friends they will sound it again and again. Quite difficult to hunt because they like to stay close to the surface of the water. They are fast and nimble and are very attentive to each other. They are very intelligent, and good humored and smile and play a lot with the locals, but because they are more of an aquanaut than a true island dweller, they like to travel on the ocean up and down the coast. They will go and gather and eat their food in the ocean, but then will travel back to the islands and eat. They get around 8-12kg. Next are Tuxis, or "Tucans". Which translates to the French word, "Bête de Mer". They are called such

Archive for January 12th, 2009 (1) IN THE STRUGGLE. The Wachovia Bank in Atlanta recently invested $12.5 billion in money market funds, opting to do away with interest rate hedges as of the end of 2007. Most of the money comes from the deposit side of its business, but a large chunk of the venture capital side of the business and a chunk of the loan book comes from fixed income. In other words, these rate changes will have ripple effects throughout the rest of the financial system. (2) BUT WAIT, THERE'S MORE. The credit freeze and the market freeze have probably just begun, because of concern over mortgage-backed securities, and the panic at every state lender's bank will likely hurt the national banks, which are the largest lenders in the country. (3) THE BEST PRACTICE. In the rush to get profits, one of the worst things you can do in a company is to try to beat the market in one fell swoop. For instance, betting a few billion on silver as a savior for Wachovia may seem like a wise move right now, but by the time the company lets the chips fall, the silver market may have turned around, and Wachovia may have been left looking a bit foolish. (4) A COUNTER TASTE. Long-term borrowing rates are high because the US is at the mercy of global short-term rates. If the global economy falls apart and short-term rates escalate, the US economy could be slammed. (5) TALE OF TWO AGENCIES. The S&P is the world's largest stock-market index. It does not buy or sell securities. It only rates them and offers an opinion about the worth of a security's stock price. It uses its judgment to come up with a number for all companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange, the Nasdaq, and the London Stock Exchange. If you were a shareholder of the New York Stock Exchange, Nasdaq, or London Stock Exchange, you would be quite happy that the S&P has such a big say in your stock price. (6) THE OTHER S&P. The Dow is a 30 company index, but you need to remember that for every Dow company, there are three S&P companies. So, while you can use the S&P to figure out the big picture, f678ea9f9e
